Speaking: The students read out loud the vocabulary related to traffic signs

Reading:

The students read the following text written by the teacher on the whiteboard:

Road sign comprehension plays an important part in road safety management, particularly for those drivers who are travelling in an unfamiliar country. Previous research has established that comprehension can be improved if signs are designed to adhere to ergonomic principles. However, it may be difficult for sign designers to incorporate all the principles into a single sign and may thus have to make a judgement as to the most effective ones. The colors and shapes are keys to comprehension of traffic signs.

Ending Activities

Wrap up:

The students present the activities done in their notebooks to the teacher

Evaluation:

The students answer the following questions:

1. What do you learn today?
2. Why is it important to know about traffic signs?
3. Do you think the current topic is useful? Why? Why not?

D. Homework:

Create flashcards about the vocabulary of traffic signs to study them during the week. The procedure is the following: Cut a small square piece of paper. On the front of your flashcard, write one word of the vocabulary with its correct pronunciation. Then, on the back, write its definition.
