Opening Activities

Review/ Prior Knowledge: Through one oral way, the students try to answer the following question:

Can you mention some of the traffic signs that you learnt in the previous class?

Presentation of New content: The teacher read out loud the following text and explains the underlined vocabulary:

In the UK, you must give way at a give-way sign and at a roundabout, where traffic coming from the right has the right of way. You must give way to pedestrians at a pedestrian crossing.

In some countries, sounding/beeping your horn is prohibited, except in emergencies.

In most countries, jumping a red light is a serious offence, as is reckless driving. In many parts of the world, drink-driving or drug-driving can result in a heavy fine or imprisonment. Drivers may be asked by a police officer to take a breathalyzer test. Hit-and-run accidents are almost always considered to be grave offences and may result in a ban for several years and/or imprisonment.

1. Give way: stop at a junction before entering a bigger road
2. right of way: is allowed to go before other traffic
3. crossing: often called a zebra crossing when it has black and white stripes
4. sounding/beeping: beeping is less formal than sounding
5. jumping: not stopping at
6. reckless: very dangerous, without any care for others
7. drink-driving: driving after consuming alcohol above the official limit
8. drug-driving: driving after taking illegal drugs
9. breathalyzer: instrument you breathe into to measure alcohol level
10. Hit-and-run: running into someone and not stopping
11. Ban: removal of your driving licence
